Please join us for our fall meeting and Indigo Shibori Natural Dye Workshop

Indigo Shibori is the ancient Japanese art of resist dying using various binding, twisting, wrapping, tying and stitching techniques to achieve unpredictable and gorgeous results on fabric. An overview of history, techniques and traditions around the world using the Indigo Tinctoria plant will be discussed. The workshop is lead by artist and educator, Rachel Rice. For more information about the workshop and the artist, visit RachelRice.com

Time: 2:00 – 5:00 pm
Location:
The Pink Palace Studio
5305 SE 35th Ave. Portland, OR 97202
After the workshop we will have an optional informal gathering at a neighborhood restaurant.

About this workshop:
Using traditional indigo dye vats, you will create two 28” x28” cotton hand towels and one zippered cotton pouch. Once fabric rinsed and dried, it may be stamped and embellished. All supplies are included. Please feel free to bring your own white/off-white cotton, linen or silk items to dye (sheets, fabric, pillow cases, clothes, scarves, curtains, lace, etc. ). There will be plenty of dye!

Please wear clothes + shoes that can get permanent dye on them.
